

UX Idea

What users are most interested in when searching for vacation sites is the weather there. It is a situation that comforts the user to know the weather. My idea is to ease the user by highlighting the weather on the dates he chooses before he leaves. Thus, the user will have information about the place to go before searching and the purchasing process will be easier.

